Alert Detail

Medium	Absence of Anti-CSRF Tokens
Description	No Anti-CSRF tokens were found in a HTML submission form. A cross-site request forgery is an attack that involves forcing a victim to send an HTTP request in which they divulge sensitive information or perform an action without their knowledge or intent in order to perform an action as the victim. The underlying cause is application logic that performs actions in a repeatable way. The nature of the attack is that CSRF exploits the trust that a web site has for a user that is based on the Session ID. Like cross-site scripting (XSS) exploits the trust that a user has for a web site. Like XSS, CSRF attacks can be effective in a number of situations, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>* The victim has an active session on the target site.</li> <li>* The victim is authenticated via HTTP auth on the target site.</li> <li>* The victim is on the same local network as the target site.</li> </ul> CSRF has primarily been used to perform an action against a target site using the victim's privileges. It can be used to disclose information by gaining access to the response. The risk of information disclosure is high if the target site is vulnerable to XSS, because XSS can be used as a platform for CSRF, allowing an attacker to perform actions on the target site using the same-origin policy.

Solution	Review the source code of this page. Implement custom error pages. Consider implementing a mechanism to provide a unique error reference/identifier to the client (browser) while logging the details on the server side and not exposing them to the user.

Medium	CSP: Wildcard Directive
Description	Content Security Policy (CSP) is an added layer of security that helps to detect and mitigate certain types of attacks. Including (but not limited to) Cross Site Scripting (XSS), and data injection attacks. These attacks are used for everything from data theft to site defacement or distribution of malware. CSP provides a set of standard HTTP headers that allow website owners to declare approved sources of content that browsers should be allowed to load on that page — covered types are JavaScript, CSS, HTML frames, fonts, images and embeddable objects such as Java applets, ActiveX, audio and video files.

Solution	Modern Web browsers support the Content-Security-Policy and X-Frame-Options HTTP header pages returned by your site/app. If you expect the page to be framed only by pages on your server (e.g. it's part of a FRAMESET) otherwise if you never expect the page to be framed, you should use DENY. Alternatively consider Policy's "frame-ancestors" directive.

Low	X-Content-Type-Options Header Missing
Description	The Anti-MIME-Sniffing header X-Content-Type-Options was not set to 'nosniff'. This allows older versions of Chrome to perform MIME-sniffing on the response body, potentially causing the response body to be interpreted with the wrong content type. Current (early 2014) and legacy versions of Firefox do not do MIME-sniffing, but (if one is set), rather than performing MIME-sniffing.

Solution	Ensure that the application/web server sets the Content-Type header appropriately, and that it is set to 'nosniff' for all web pages. If possible, ensure that the end user uses a standards-compliant and modern web browser that cannot be directed by the web application/web server to not perform MIME-sniffing.

Informational	Authentication Request Identified
Description	The given request has been identified as an authentication request. The 'Other Info' field contains a set of key=value lines which identify any relevant fields. If the request is in a context which has an Authentication Method set to "Auto-Detect" then this rule will change the authentication to match the request identified.

Informational	CSP: X-Content-Security-Policy
Description	Content Security Policy (CSP) is an added layer of security that helps to detect and mitigate certain types of attacks. Including (but not limited to) Cross Site Scripting (XSS), and data injection attacks. These attacks are used for everything from data theft to site defacement or distribution of malware. CSP provides a set of standard HTTP headers that allow website owners to declare approved sources of content that browsers should be allowed to load on that page — covered types are JavaScript, CSS, HTML frames, fonts, images and embeddable objects such as Java applets, ActiveX, audio and video files.

Informational	Charset Mismatch
Description	This check identifies responses where the HTTP Content-Type header declares a charset different from the charset defined by the body of the HTML or XML. When there's a charset mismatch between the HTTP header and content body Web browsers can be forced into an undesirable content-sniffing mode to determine the content's correct character set. An attacker could manipulate content on the page to be interpreted in an encoding of their choice. For example, if an attacker can control content at the beginning of the page, they could inject script using UTF-7 encoded text and manipulate some browsers into interpreting that text.
